May 1, 2022

Principal's Message

The Government of Alberta has announced that the new K-3 English Language Arts and Literature, K-3 Mathematics and K-6 Physical Education and Wellness curriculums will be implemented in classrooms across Alberta in September 2022. Please go to the Alberta Education website to learn more about the new curriculum. Curriculum information

In this newsletter you will read about some of the great opportunities available for students at Copperhaven School. It is so nice to see regular life being brought back into the school. I can't say enough good things about the staff of Copperhaven and their commitment to giving of their time—early mornings, afterschool, lunch breaks, evenings and weekends—to provide your children with these extra curricular opportunities.

Spring Reading Challenge: Reading Makes Your Mind Blossom

Starting on April 22nd, Copperhaven students will be challenged to read 2022 books in 22 days! When students finish a book, they will fill out a paper flower which will be displayed in the library. Each completed book will earn them an entry into one of 5 draws for a Chapters gift card! Students who read novels from our school library can also complete a book recommendation for an additional entry into the draw.

Archery Club

Archery Club had a great turnout this year with 19 students signed up for our Monday night practices. We also had 10 students compete in 2 tournaments. There will be a windup celebration for our Club students during our last Monday practice on May 16th. Thank you for a great first year of Archery, we look forward to the next one! And a big thank you to Mrs. Shannon Lillywhite and Ms. Chelci Coffey for volunteering their time to coach so that the Archery Club could take place.

Student Leadership Projects

The newest initiative, "Change for Change" will run from April 25- May 6. The fundraiser will support Doctors without Borders and their work within Ukraine. Every $150 raised will support 1 doctor working for 1 day in the area. Send in your spare change to support this initiative.

Hopping for Hampers Food Bank Initiative

We set our initial goal at collecting 750 items for the Parkland Food Bank. Very quickly our goal was achieved so we reset it to 1500 items. In the end 1625 food items were donated and sent to the food bank. Thank you for your generosity Copperhaven School.

Thank you to our Student Leadership Team under the direction of Ms. Julia Schmidt for all of their work.

Grade 4- 6 Track Meet

Copperhaven Track Meet for students in grades 4-6 is on May 19th with a rainout day of May 24th. Students will be participating in running and field events and should be prepared to be outside for most of the day. Keep your eye out for a newsletter coming home with more information including a call for parent volunteers.

Badminton Team News

The badminton season is winding down for both the senior and junior teams. The PSD Badminton Championship is being held next week, May 4-7th. Good luck to our teams! Thank you to all of the parents and players for a successful season. A big thank you to the following teachers for volunteering their time to coach: Mrs. Kelly McRae, Mrs. Jen Couch, Ms. Laura Chidley and Mrs. Jenny Vierboom.

Mental Health Awareness Week

May 2-6 is Mental Health Awareness Week. This year's theme for Mental Health Week in the Tri-Region is "Rediscover". Parkland School Division is happy to participate in the rediscovery of happiness and positive relationships through simple acts of kindness. Why kindness? According to a meta-analysis of the psychological effects of kindness (Curry, et al. 2018), it is reported that performing kindness activities for seven days increases happiness.

Next week at Copperhaven School each classroom will have a supply of sticky notes for students to write a kind message for someone else. Messages will be posted for all to see. On Wednesday, May 4, as part of Mental Health Awareness Week, is Hats on for Mental Health day.

Copperhaven School Run Wild Team

Copperhaven School hosted some special guests for a special pep rally this week. The Run Wild team brought Zander the Zebra and shared with students the importance of healthy eating and active living, as well as a special opportunity to participate in the Run Wild race on May 14th! Taking place in Spruce Grove this year, Leading Edge Physiotherapy is hosting a 1.2km fun run for children aged 4-12 years old. This fun race supports local charities, including the Zebra Child Protection Center.

Students aged 5-12 received a brochure about the event. If you choose to register your child, please register online at runwild.ca and be sure to choose "Copperhaven School" as your team. That way, Mrs. Cameron will know all of the students' names who are registered as part of the school, and race packages will be delivered to the school.

The MaraFun in Spruce Grove is only for 4-12 year-olds. Parents, older athletes, or those wanting a running challenge are welcome to sign up as an independent racer at runwild.ca for the 5K, 10K or half marathon races in St. Albert on Sunday, May 15. Brochures available in the school office.

The deadline for registration is May 6th. The cost of the event is $35.00 and the race package includes a t-shirt and a finishers medal. We look forward to doing a bit of training together in the coming weeks and having a lot of fun at the event! If you have any questions, please email Mrs. Cameron at lesley.cameron@psd.ca. Thank you to Mrs. Cameron for volunteering to organize and attend this race!

Grade 6 Immunizations

2nd doses of Hepatitis B and HPV immunizations will be given at schools during April, May and June. Children with parental consent will be updated.

Round 2 immunization date for Copperhaven will be on May 17, 2022

*If your child is not present on the round dates they may receive immunizations on other dates throughout the school year.

***If you are new to Alberta OR if your child has been immunized at your doctor's office or pharmacy, AHS Public Health may not have a record of your child's immunizations.

To provide an up to date immunization record or if you have any questions you may contact the nurse assigned to your child's school at 780-968-3700 and press 3.

Celebration of the Visual Arts

This year's visual arts celebration is a virtual one. Check out the excellent contributions from the students of Copperhaven on the school division website or 2021-2022 Celebration of Visual Arts

Council

Our next meeting will be Wednesday May 18th at 6:30 in the Copperhaven School Library. As an advisory group, we invite any and all parents to join us in conversations about the school.

The playground subcommittee is working on a proposal for updating our outdoor play space and the City of Spruce Grove owned field behind the school. If you would like to be part of the group please reach out to Sean at copperhaven.scchair@partner.psd.ca.

Thank you.

Sean, Amy, Chantelle, Jacqueline and Brianne.

Parkland School Division Family Supports Newsletter May, 2022

Dear parents and caregivers,

Welcome to your April newsletter. Spring is here although the weather doesn't seem to be cooperating right now!

This newsletter is all about co-parenting. There are great strategies and tips inside - HOWEVER even if you are not in a co-parenting situation you will find other great information about sessions and activities for your children.

So grab some 'Me' time and enjoy reading this newsletter.

Take care

Vicky and Dena (Vicky Mamczasz -Family Support Facilitator, Dena Davis- Sunrise Supports Program Liaison)

Low cost counseling for children and adults

Whether you are married, separated, or divorced, being on different pages as co-parents is an option no family can afford - it's important to try to be a team as much as possible. In some situations, this is anything but easy. However, your child is worth it.

Finding common ground is key to working together as co-parents.

Wouldn't it be great if you and your co-parent were on the same page about everything? Unfortunately, every parent has different ideas, opinions, and values in real life based on their learning and life experience. The good news is that even if you have a different approach, chances are you have some of the same goals. On the surface, you can argue all day about your different beliefs and approaches to parenting. However, by learning to "get below the surface" of your co-parent's approach, you will discover that they have legitimate underlying reasons that lead them to parent the way they do.

Instead of judging yourself or your co-parent, seek to understand why they are the way they are. Asking good questions and giving grace helps your co-parent learn and grow. On the other hand, judging will keep your co-parent stuck in their problematic ways, or what we will call "ditches." With this in mind, when you come across a situation where the two of you cannot agree, take a moment to press pause and ask your co-parent the goal or motivation behind their preferred approach. Since children often want an answer now, co-parents often find it challenging to be on the same page in the moment. Therefore, the best thing you can do for yourself, your co-parent, and your family is to communicate to your children that you will not provide an answer to their request until both parents have discussed it and come to a mutual agreement. Communicate as a united front to your children.

Parenting is not about being perfect. There is no formula. Trying to be the best parent or develop the perfect parent playbook may lead to more frustration if you can't give yourself and your family members grace. The best parenting approach balances moderate expectations with a high level of grace. This approach teaches children that growing and learning from mistakes is essential to learn. Learning and growing are part of parenting. Football coaches are constantly adding new plays to the playbook to make their team more successful. Parenting is not about finding the perfect manual. It's about working together to continually build a playbook that works for your family. Building your playbook requires communicating about your ditches and finding ways to get out of them together. Don't worry about hitting the ditch. We all do it from time to time. Your success or failure as a parent is not measured by how often you hit the ditch. Success is determined by what you do when you hit the ditch. Ignoring the issue or getting introspective and internally spinning your mind's tires will worsen the situation. Communicating and working together as a team to find ways to get unstuck will help you move forward together.

If your co-parent has frequently made decisions without you, it's important to forgive and start fresh. In the judgment lens, I see my co-parent for all their faults and issues. For example, he is too controlling with the kids, or she never gives consequences and always makes me the "bad cop." The grace lens shifts away from their flaws and celebrates the strengths of my co-parent. Awareness is the first step to change.

- Before you get ahead of yourself and try to change your co-parent, you need to find out where they are at and better understand why they are where they are.
- Try empowering them. Affirmations are the foundation of empowerment. Affirmations communicate to your partner that you see them through the grace lens. Even in their shortcomings, you appreciate where they are coming from. Affirmations disarm our defenses and draw us out of self-protect mode, creating a safe space for productive conversation.

- Pair affirmations with asks ("how can I help" questions). This has the potential to draw even the most defensive individuals out of hiding and into collaboratively working together as a team.

As co-parents, there is no neutral ground. We are either working together or against each other. I meet very few parents who want to work against each other. Unfortunately, we all do things as parents that work against our co-parents without realizing it.

- Be honest about your own shortcomings, it's impossible to learn and grow if you don't. I can only be a better teammate by honestly assessing the areas where I might not be playing on the same team as my co-parent. Being unified and working as a team is essential to parenting well. If two people are trying to drive the same car in two different directions, chaos is the only possible outcome. One parent swerves towards the ditch of control. Then the other parent feels like their children are losing out on the relationship and overcompensates by swerving into the ditch of permissiveness.
- It's frustrating for both parents but even more so to the child. It's hard for children to learn how to manage themselves when parents constantly switch their parenting approaches. Mom is permissive and gives the child too much responsibility, and in the next moment, Dad is controlling and takes away all responsibility. It's hard for children to adjust from complete freedom to zero freedom moment to moment. Once a child has been given the freedom to drive, they are less willing to give up their freedom.
- Parents who vacillate in their approach create disorder and confusion for their children. For the children, it feels like parents are on two different teams and the rules change depending on who is home or in charge. Most parents want to be on the same team and are not trying to play against each other. However, if one of you is permissive and the other is in control, you create two different cultures in your home that can't work together. Without a shared vision, it's impossible to be a team.
- A natural reaction to a parent being too one-sided is for the other parent to overcompensate in the other direction. This should balance things out in theory, but it accomplishes the opposite. Overcompensating in the other direction makes things less consistent for the children creating more chaos instead of cohesion. The more parents compensate, the more it feels like you are playing on two opposing teams.

Picture from Hancock Law Firm

When your co-parent falls into a ditch, choose to communicate instead of compensating. Compensating moves you further away from playing on the same team, while communicating helps identify an area of concern and work together to a more empowered solution.

- Affirmations, Asks, and Apologies provide a playbook for parent communication to get unstuck and move towards a shared vision.
- Openly acknowledging my ditches helps my co-parent be more open to exploring their ditches too. Until I own my 50% of the problem, how can I expect my co-parent to own their 50%? Even if my co-parent is 98% at fault, I have no right to point a finger until I own my 2%.
- On the surface, your co-parent may have ideas of parenting that you completely disagree with. Avoid the urge to judge or criticize them.
- Instead, ASK your partner what is going on below the surface. What are the underlying reasons – contributing factors, beliefs, and experiences – leading them to want to parent this way. In a non-judgmental way, explore the ditches. For example, you might say, "it sounds like your relationship with your children is important to you right now, and I agree. I'm wondering, is there a way to make both relationship and responsibility equally important so we can stay on the road of connection-based parenting instead of getting stuck in a ditch?"
- Seek to understand and appreciate your co-parent's underlying wants and needs instead of judging or criticizing. Judgment focuses on the problem. It's easy to do and does not help the situation. Discernment sees the problem and invites the other person into a conversation that moves towards a solution.
- Taking time to communicate and decide how to work as a team to get out of the ditch brings a simple solution to complicated problems.

Communicating about your weaknesses is not easy, but it's the only way to get out of the ditch without making more of a mess.

Strong Families: The Truth About Fetal Alcohol Spectrum Disorder

Parkland School Division is proud to partner with Alberta Parenting For The Future to present another FREE information session for local families.

In our upcoming Strong Families session, Brittany Durant of Catholic Social Services will provide a space for individuals to have an open discussion about Fetal Alcohol Spectrum Disorder (FASD), with the goal of debunking myths, challenging stigma, increasing awareness and demonstrating how we can support healthy pregnancies and prevent FASD. This session will also provide strategies for supporting those with FASD and resources for those living with FASD.

Date: Wednesday, May 4, 2022

Time: 6:30-8:30pm

Location: Online Zoom Webinar / Discussion Group

Presenter: Brittany Durant, Bachelor of Child and Youth Care, Catholic Social Services

Fetal Alcohol Spectrum Disorder (FASD) is the term used to describe the changes that can occur in the brain and body of a growing baby when they are exposed to alcohol prior to birth. FASD is a lifelong disability that affects approximately 4% of the Canadian population, who may experience an array of challenges, ranging from learning and socio-emotional difficulties to physical health and coordination problems. In this session, participants will learn more about the variety of underlying factors that may impel people to drink while pregnant, how they can help mothers and babies experience a safe and healthy pregnancy, and the ways in which they can support – or locate supports for – people living with FASD.

Please register early to reserve your spot by visiting <https://www.eventbrite.ca/e/fasd-registration-296987346147>.

Getting the Best Behaviour From Your Child

Join me (Kelsey Wittebolle, Registered Psychologist) where I chat about all things behaviour and how we can see the best behaviour from our children. We are going to talk about age-appropriate expectations, the importance of relationship, shifting our perspective, how to honour your child's experience while setting limits, and handling tantrums, separation anxiety, and big emotions. There will be room for questions. This session is ONLINE and in two parts, giving us a chance to try some strategies and report back. The content in this presentation is most suitable for parents of children attending Pre-School or Kindergarten (ages 2-6).

Register for either

May 4th and May 18th from 1-2:30pm or;
May 5th and May 19 from 9-10:30am

To register:

- e-mail Kelsey (kelsey.wittebolle@psd.ca) with the name(s) of those who would like to attend, and the name of your child. If there is a specific topic you are hoping will be covered, please feel free to share that as well. Following registration, details for the online meeting will be shared.
